

Forum Site Terms and Conditions

Students posting to the forum site are expected to act safely by keeping personal information out of their posts and comments. Personal information includes family name, phone number, email address, or home address.

Students are expected to treat this online site as a classroom space. Inappropriate language or content will not be posted. Any inappropriate or rude posts that somehow make it online will be removed immediately. Inappropriate language for use in posting to the forum also includes the language, abbreviations, symbols, and acronyms used in texting and emailing. Students should edit and proofread their posts for clarity and correctness.

Students must “sign” their posts but not with their full name. Students can choose to sign with their first name, their initials, or their first name and first initial of their last name. No nicknames or online names may be used as for a forum signature. Students may sign their posts with “anonymous” only after conferring with their teachers. Students must sign their posts with the same forum-signature every time they post, and teachers will keep a roster of the forum signatures students choose to use.

Students who do not follow these terms and conditions will lose their privilege to participate in the I Write the Future forum and the campaign itself.

I have read and understood the terms and conditions of using the I Write the Future forum. I agree to uphold them.

Student's signature: _____

Date: _____

If student is under 13 years of age or if teacher/school/district requires parent or guardian permission:

Parent/Guardian's signature: _____

Date: _____